Jason Sinclair joins PIPE Networks Board

PIPE Networks Limited (ASX:PWK) today announced that Company Chief Operating Officer (COO) Jason Sinclair has accepted an offer of appointment to the Board of Directors. Mr Sinclair joined the Company in February as COO and will take up his additional role as executive Director effective immediately.

PIPE Networks Managing Director and CEO, Bevan Slattery said “with my fellow founder Steve Baxter moving to a non-Executive Director role, we recommended Jason to be considered by the Board in light of his superb technical skills and the added capacity he could bring as a Director. After careful consideration and following a review of the Board’s requirements and potential new non-executive directors, the Board agreed and I am delighted that Jason has accepted his nomination to join with my fellow Directors.”

Mr Sinclair has executive responsibility for overseeing the delivery of core products and internal provisioning, customer service and quality systems. He brings over twelve years of experience in senior roles in leading ISP’s and telecommunications companies and is highly respected in the industry.

Company Chairman, Roger Clarke, welcomed Jason to the Board and noted the additional strength and depth of technical and industry experience that this appointment adds to the Board.
